GEODIS achieves the highest level of recognition for its climate commitment with CDP 'A' score

GEODIS has reached a new major milestone by joining the CDP 2025 Climate "A List" (A- in 2024), the highest level of recognition awarded by CDP. This distinction places GEODIS among the world's leading companies in terms of climate transparency and action.

The 'A' score, awarded by CDP, recognizes GEODIS' excellence in climate-related disclosure, governance, and the management of climate-related risks and opportunities, as well as the implementation of concrete, measurable actions to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions across its entire value chain. In 2025, only 4% of the companies assessed worldwide by CDP achieved an equivalent or higher score.

"Achieving an 'A' score — the highest rating awarded by CDP — represents strong recognition of the rigor and ambition of our climate strategy. It reflects the collective commitment of all GEODIS teams to sustainably transform our operations and to support our customers in their transition towards more sustainable logistics solutions. In a transport and logistics sector facing significant decarbonization challenges, we fully embrace our role as a key player in the environmental transition," said Marie-Christine Lombard, Chief Executive Officer of GEODIS.

This recognition further strengthens the credibility of GEODIS' decarbonization pathway, which was validated in 2025 by the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi). By 2030, the Group has committed to reducing its Scope 1 and 2 GHG emissions by 42%, and to cutting subcontracted transport emissions (Scope 3) by 25%, compared with the 2022 baseline year.

As part of its commitment to Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) in controlling and reducing the environmental impact of its transport and logistics activities, GEODIS has been responding to the CDP Climate Change questionnaire since 2014. The continual improvement in its CDP scores is evidence of the success of the Group's climate strategy.
